

Conclusion: We all must come to Christ

If you're someone here tonight who's not yet trusted in Jesus, I'd ask you to think of why that is; I'd love to chat with you after the service about it if you'd like:

Come to Jesus, if you are weary and heavy laden, and he will give you rest.

What about those of us, the many of us tonight, who do trust in Jesus already? What might it look like for you to come to him this evening?

It may be that there is a particular sin that you know you are indulging in, that is taking away from your rest in Christ; turn to him and confess it.

It may be a particular worry, or battle; in the quietness now as we pray bring that to God in Christ.

It may be a cold heart towards him: ask God in Christ to warm you.

Whatever it is, Jesus calls us all to him, that in repentance and faith we might lay hold again of the rest that he so graciously offers, as we wait for his return.

Let's pray.
